

Once we have reviewed your project below are the most common avenues and services Designtex offers for Custom Digital Printing.

Design Development

Design Development

This involves selection of creative resources, design management, creative direction, concepting and design development. This process may include research, discovery, design guide, and prototypes.

These are project specific solutions based on concept, color palette and design direction.

Image Curation

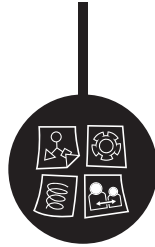

Image Curation

Based on your project image inspiration and graphic locations, we can curate a deck of images that will scale up appropriately to the intended sizes of the graphic areas. This process takes approximately 3-5 business days. This can range from photographs, paintings and even illustrations. Our photo editors will curate what will be the best solution for your project.

Artwork Production

Artwork Production

Based on your project inspiration, our team will create print-ready digital artwork for hand off into final print production.

Client Provided Artwork

Print Ready Artwork

This is the most straight forward approach where our team will take your print ready files and provide a file check to ensure that the files have been set up for print ready production.
