

Case Study

Venice Biennale

Venice, Italy

The inspiration behind the custom wallcoverings and sheer panels created for a Venice Biennale installation was the Roaring Fork River in the Colorado Rocky Mountains. Although the rushing water of the river seems abundant, the design team at Rowland and Broughton knows the source of the water supply is in danger and they are dedicated to finding alternative sources to sustain it.

Layout

Drawings were created by our Custom team for pre-production approval.

